- Running projects to transcribe records relevant to members' research. Contact the Projects Co-ordinator.
- Publishing transcribed records. Contact the Publications Officer.
- Providing an enquiry and search service from our records in the Research Room.
 Contact the Enquiry service Co-ordinator.
- Maintaining a list of members' interests by surname and dates of interest, which are available to members on the website. Each quarter new additions are published in The Scrivener. Contact the Members' Interests Co-ordinator.
- Maintaining an index of "Strays" (Calderdale people who appear in records elsewhere). Contact the Strays Co-ordinator.

Membership

- Is open to all family historians who have an interest in the area. Contact the Membership Secretary.
- Annual subscriptions are £12.00 for UK individuals (£14.00 for family membership).
- Internet membership is £6.00/ £8.00 which only provides information such as the journal on the Internet, but not on paper.

Editorial

So - the digital age is upon us. Like it or loath it!

All CFHS meetings are on ZOOM for the present, see page 30 for details

The AGM will take place in April via ZOOM. The AGM insert in the middle of this issue contains the Agenda, Nomination papers etc.

The AGM Insert also contains an appeal for Committee Members (page AGM 5) - you can be a Committee Member even if you are not local to Halifax. You can ZOOM in to committee meetings!

Also in the AGM insert is an article by Peter Lord about the CFHS On Line Database (page AGM 7. No room for it anywhere else!)

So how do you get to attend these meetings virtually? You need to install Zoom on to your computer, I-Pad or other device. This can easily be downloaded from https://zoom.us/download – hopefully anyone who needs help with this has a relative (usually a grandchild !!) who can do the business. If all else fails, get in touch with us at systems@cfhsweb.com

Once installed, just E-Mail our Membership Secretary at membeco@cfhsweb.com & ask to be registered for the on-line meeting. Once this has been done, she will send you details (known as "Participants' Protocol") to help you get the best from every meeting.

Happy Zooming!

(Sorry if your piece has not appeared in this issue - Shortage of space! Keep looking!)

1901 Census.

The address is now 18 Thornhill Bridge Lane with ELLENOR widow aged 43 and daughter Annie 13 years and now working as a silk doffer. No sign of Harry at that address.

1911 Census. For the first time it was the duty of the Head of the Household to complete the form thereby one can see that person's handwriting. Notice how she spelt her Christian name and that she did not sign it correctly using the word Mrs rather than her Christian name. Harry, now aged 26 was described as single and a cotton spinner.

I may be doing Mrs Oddy a dis-service but I suspect she was possibly not too well educated (although her writing is clear) or she was confused as shown by the large number of crossings out, deletions and additions. Also note she has included John Oddy aged 1 year and 11 months who, acording to the transcript of the family grave in Rastrick Cemetery, had died in 1884.

Elderly widow Mrs Jane Richardson was also there – probably living there or at least there on Sunday 2nd April 1911 which was when the Census was taken.

Carr Street is a form of 'back to back' terrace. The Oddy household was number 22 which is at the back of number 20, the house located on the right of the through archway. Access to number 22 is through the archway.

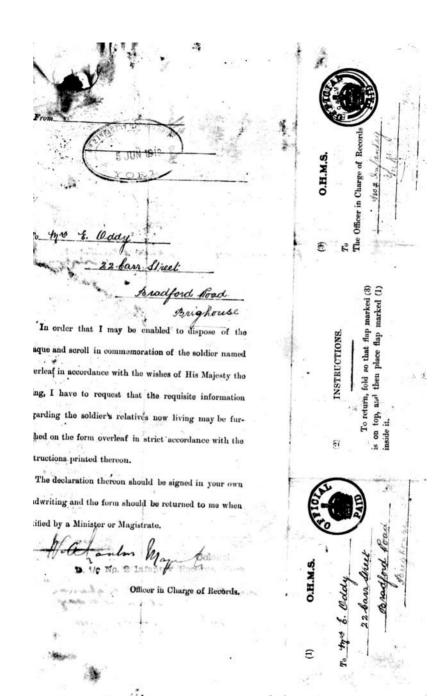

Henry enlisted or attested on 10th December 1915 and trained at North Shields and Whitley Bay. He crossed the Channel from Folkestone to Boulogne on 24th May and was killed in action just under fourth months later.

As can be seen on his medal card Private Oddy was awarded both the British and Victory Medals. There is also a copy of the letter to his mother concerning the plaque and scroll which she must have responded to in that the plaque or Death Penny ended up within the local area. One wonders how it ended up in the aforementioned car and whose car was it?

C.W.G.C. information includes....'Tyne Cot' or 'Tyne Cottage' was the name given by the Northumberland Fusiliers to a barn which stood near the level crossing on the Passchendaele-Broodseinde road. The barn, which had become the centre of five or six German blockhouses, or pill-boxes, was captured by the 3rd Australian Division on 4 October 1917, in the advance on Passchendaele.

One of these pill-boxes was unusually large and was used as an advanced dressing station after its capture. From 6 October to the end of March 1918, 343 graves were made, on two sides of it, by the 50th (Northumbrian) and 33rd Divisions, and by two Canadian units. The cemetery was in German hands again from 13 April to 28 September, when it was finally recaptured, with Passchendaele, by the Belgian Army.

It is now the largest Commonwealth war cemetery in the world in terms of burials. At the suggestion of King George V, who visited the cemetery in 1922, the Cross of Sacrifice was placed on the original large pill-box. There are three other pill-boxes in the cemetery.

There are now 11,961 Commonwealth servicemen of the First World War buried or commemorated in Tyne Cot Cemetery. 8,373 of the burials are unidentified but there are special memorials to more than 80 casualties known or believed to be buried among them. Other special memorials commemorate 20 casualties whose graves were destroyed by shell fire. There are also 4 German burials, 3 being unidentified.

When researching the Lost Sons of Rastrick I visited Tyne Cot many times as there are several Rastrick soldiers buried or commemorated there. At some time in the future, I will visit again to find Henry's grave and complete the story. In the mean time I wonder what became of Henry's medals and are there any relatives living in the Rastrick or Brighouse areas?

The Cawthra One Name Study - Synopsis

(Re-scheduled to June 2021)

These are of course unusual times – even for someone as old as I am – but I have not found it easy to provide an interesting synopsis in advance of giving a talk without spoiling the talk itself!

Some background information about me would perhaps be helpful. I was born in Halifax in 1943, the son of Jack Cawthra and Dorothy Wilkinson – I was an only and a late child – they were married in 1936. We lived at Quarry Farm in Wheatley and my father was a Foreman at the Dapper Mill as his day job and my mother had worked at Crossleys and mainly at Grove Mills. Their other job was farming – pigs and hens.

My life can easily be divided into four segments – the first 20 years being educated; the next 30 years working as an engineer, manager and executive for four of the country's major Construction Companies; the next 10 years working on my own as a Consultant working to help government, organisations and companies to overcome major challenges and the last 15 years working in my retirement years on the Cawthra One Name Study. Until that final segment, outside my own family I only ever met or even read about one other Cawthra – that was on my first day at Lee Mount School in 1948 when I was seated next to Rodney Cawthra. I went home and told my parents, and my Dad said – "He'll be one of the Boothtown Cawthras and we are of the Queensbury Cawthras". I now know that he, as always, was right. What he probably didn't know is that the two factions are related.

It was only in the early years of the current millennium that I took any interest in my Family History and this was stimulated by being introduced by my sister-in-law to the 1881 online census and this coincided with a run down of my business activities. Initially I was interested in the Cawthras, Perkins, Wilkinsons and Moores – the surnames of my grandparents. Much of my guidance came from that excellent book "Ancestral Trails" by Mark Herber. I wasn't to find it easy, or even possible to work out which of the huge number of Wilkinson's and Moore's were my ancestors – with the Cawthras it was easier and with the Perkins challenging. When thumbing through the Index to "Ancestral Trails" I came across "One Name Studies" and that led me to "The Guild of One Name Studies". It struck an immediate chord with me - it offered me a finite project that had not been attempted by anyone else - the name had not been registered with the Guild - and for me to make a meaningful contribution to genealogical study. In particular it opened up the opportunity to "meet" online many Cawthras from around the world. In a Google search of "Cawthra" the third item is "Cawthra - Guild of One Name Studies". All people have to do to contact me is open the link on the Guild website and insert the name Cawthra and there is a synopsis of my Study. The opportunity is there for them to contact me via the Guild and many have done so to their and equally valuably my benefit. My page has had 3,186 page views. I can now see that my page could beneficially be updated – which I will attend to soon. The Guild is an excellent organisation which is low cost and is run by a group of members, whose dedication, expertise and sheer effort is amazing.

Once I had joined the Guild my entire Family History focus was and has since been on "The Cawthra Study". I was able to register the prime name "Cawthra" and five other variant names - Cauthery: Cawtheray: Cawthraw; Cawthray and Cawthrow. Other names I would like to have been able to include were Cawthera and Cothery. I was already a member of Genes Reunited and whilst no longer a member I see that it still has the excellent facility of listing every other member that has a Cawthra or other variant in their Tree. This provided a major input of information for me and imprinted in my mind that I must as soon as possible create my own list of contacts with whom to share and harvest information. I do recall that I made the bold statement through Genes Reunited that Cawthra was a relatively new name – I had adopted a mathematical approach and worked out that if there were say 100 Cawthras in the 1881 census and 75 in the 1861 census that that must mean that the first Cawthra arrived around 1780. I was swiftly corrected by another member who told me that there were Cawthras in the Wharfe Valley in Medieval times - I had much to learn as she was of course correct.

From the outset I adopted what I will describe as an "Engineering" approach in abstracting information that I had gleaned from my studies – initially from other Genes Reunited members – then from other online sources, primarily IGI and from visiting libraries and record offices. All this source information has been recorded in spreadsheet schedules – so I had schedules for each of the UK BDM Registrations, each of the Censuses and for each of the Parish Records and all other forms of information. It was my initial expectation that the form of spelling of the name would be the key to identifying family connections so each entry in each of the schedules was given a reference that included the last few letters of the surname. As soon as I had identified a family, I created a Tree for it and referenced the Tree – with a unique number and the name – for example Cawtheray001. As soon as I identified another Cawtheray family the Tree would be Cawtheray002 and so on.

My expectation was that eventually I would be able to merge many of the Cawtheray Trees as and when I was able to validate connections. How wrong I was – but it was too late to change. I found that a family might be recorded as Cawtheray in once census, Cawthera in another and the birth, marriage and death records may have other variants. Eventually it all came to work as I had expected but only when everybody could read or write and by and large the Cawthra families were at the back end of that milestone. I often have to give the spelling of my name but our illiterate ancestors could not similarly help the person writing the records. There are distinctly different local variations even within the West Riding – for example a Cawthorn (not in the scope of my study) who moves from Birstall to Bradford has been recorded in the records henceforth as Cawthra.

I should mention here that there are a large number of Cawthras in USA, quite a number in Canada and Australia and a few in New Zealand and South Africa. All of them have their roots in Yorkshire and with the exception of some of those in Australia they were all descended from migrants seeking and usually finding a better life. However, the availability of comprehensive records online in these countries does not match those in the UK but this has to be balanced by a high level of interest there in the history of families and by the very good information from Censuses in USA and Canada albeit census information elsewhere is very limited.

I have been meticulous in keeping my information schedules updated as I discover new information and in updating the relevant Family Tree. However, as the years roll by it is important that I should plan for the survival of the information produced by the study beyond my own. This is a real race against time — balancing the time in adding new information versus having an incomplete pack of information. A valuable facility of the Guild of One Name Studies is for records to be passed to them periodically so that they have a record so that the information can continue to be made available to enquirers when a member is no longer able to respond. I have not yet initiated this transfer, seeking completeness before I do, but I must do so soon. In addition, I have an understanding with the Society of Genealogists that a copy of my work will be accepted by them.

In the early years of the Study I gleaned a lot of information from online sources where individuals had posted questions or information on the subiects of their genealogical studies and many of these were in Canada and USA and some of the most energetic supporters and contributors of my study have been the people I met through those exchanges. Beyond the exchanges I had through Genes Reunited I had very little contact with the Cawthras in this country so in October 2006 I sent out to every UK Cawthra address that I could find my first Cawthra Name Newsletter. In it I set out what I had found so far and attached a list of UK Cawthras who I could not link to any of my Trees and I sought their help. I later repeated this in USA and Australia. The response was excellent and it was the start of 28 Issues of the Cawthra Name Newsletter, the last being in 2019. In addition I produced a special series in 2008 on "Cawthras in the Great War" which identified every Cawthra who had fought in the war and with special sections on those who had tragically given their lives in the pursuit of Freedom. The general Newsletters were time consuming but very helpful to me in that it made me regularly take stock and express in words what were otherwise fleeting thoughts in my mind and it has greatly encouraged recipients to keep me updated and they have given me the encouragement to "keep going".

Establishing a large number of Cawthra contacts, as the process outlined above delivered, was essential to one of the fundamental successes of the overall study which was the DNA Study conducted in 2009. By the time four years of the Study had elapsed I had been able to define 21 separate Cawthra Trees but I could not further consolidate them. With enormous help from the Guild of One Name Studies expert on DNA testing, Susan Meates in USA, I conducted a DNA testing programme which involved 15 male volunteers from 15, at the time, unconnected Trees. These tests when completed identified that there were only three different Cawthra DNA Groups in 11 Trees (Groups of 6, 3 and 2 Trees). Soon afterwards in two of other trees genealogical connections were established with the Group of 6. In each case the different DNA was explained by a critical birth being to an identified unmarried mother. The remaining two Trees each have a very small number of members. This means that either there are three different origins or there have been further unidentified "non-paternal" events.

I should mention here that I have used the 2005 version of Family Tree Maker, throughout - it does everything I need and has an excellent series of features that it has taken me time to discover. Initially all my spreadsheets were written with Lotus 123 software but I have migrated all that data to Excel 2003. Even then I am mindful that these formats may not survive so I am and will be creating all my final records in a searchable PDF format.

The final task I have given myself is to put all of the information I have gleaned into words in the form of "The Cawthra Story". This work commenced in 2018 and Volume 1, which covered the period from the 14th century up to 1850, was finalised at the end of that year and Volume 2, which covered the period up to 1899 was finalised at the end of 2019. I am presently working on Volume 3 which will be the last Volume and will cover the period from 1900 to 1950. In the three volumes I have reached 500 pages with much to add. In addition to presenting all the available genealogical information from the various Trees, including interesting stories and events, there are a number of special Chapters which cover amongst others; "Coal Mining and The Cawthras" and "The West Riding Wool and Cloth Industries" both of which were significant for the Cawthras and also "Crime and the Cawthras" which whilst not particularly extensive is quite interesting.

Using the CFHS Newspaper BMDs Index with other Resources Vanessa Barron

I would highly recommend using the Halifax Newspaper BMDs index (1832-1921) in the CFHS Online Records database. It has helped me to find missing marriage and death records for my Halifax Aked family.

I still have gaps in the exact dates for births, marriages and deaths in my Halifax Aked family. I have previously searched the British Newspaper Archives to try to locate marriage and death notices but have been unsuccessful. I didn't want to purchase certificates from the General Register Office and was waiting for other records to go online which would give me the information I needed.

The British Newspaper Archive (BNA) is a really good resource for family stories, birth, marriage and death reports and notices. The downside is that the transcriptions of the newspaper text are not always accurate and are often gobbledegook, making it difficult to find the forenames and surnames you are looking for.

I have found that searching for the surname "Aked" on the BNA often returns results which include a misspelt "asked" or "aged" transcribed as "aked".

This was the transcription of the death notice for Mary Aked (my 3 x Great Grandmother) on page 8 of the Halifax Guardian, published on 11 December 1852:

"On Sainfday Nat, la ber year, Mr Om& TV▶aU card alailet tbis taxa"

No mention of the surname Aked, or the forename Mary. It should have read:

"On Saturday last, in her 79th year, MARY, relict of Mr CHRIS-TOPHER AKED, card maker of this town".

I would not have been able to locate this death notice without the help of the Newspaper BMDs in the CFHS Online Records database. I have now corrected this text on the BNA, so that others searching will be able to find it.

Searching on the surname Aked in the Newspaper BMDs provided me with a list of 335 records. I also looked for other surnames. Each of the records gives the name of the newspaper (Halifax Guardian or Halifax Courier), the page number and date of publication of the article. It also records the type of event (ie. birth, marriage, death, etc) and the relationship of who is mentioned in the article (eq. deceased, father, mother, etc).

This meant that I could search on the BNA, restricting my search to the Newspaper Title and the date of publication. This has saved me a lot of time and effort. I found the exact death dates in the death notices on the BNA for Sharp Lister in 1854 (my 4 x Great Uncle), Hannah Widdop (nee Lister, my 1st cousin x 4 removed) and her husband James Widdop, both in 1877. None of the forenames and surnames were found in my search on the BNA. I only found them because I knew the exact page, date and newspaper title. When I located the death notices on the BNA, the BNA transcriptions for these were illegible and missing most of the text for the death notices. Even the column title "Deaths" was incorrectly spelt.

Not all editions and years of the Halifax Courier and Halifax Guardian are available yet on the British Newspaper Archives. However, I still used the information from the Newspaper BMDs to identify the marriage for another of my ancestors, Ruth Kershaw. The notice of her marriage was published in the Halifax Guardian on 10/02/1883 on page 8. The marriage had taken place in February 1883. This edition of the Halifax Guardian was not available on the BNA. However, I used this information to find the marriage record on Findmypast for Ruth Kershaw and Charles Whilden registered in Q1, 1883, Halifax. I could then complete Ruth's timeline and add her descendants to my family tree.

As more editions of the Halifax Courier and Halifax Guardian newspapers are put online on the BNA, I know that I will be able to find other BMD notices quite easily using the index from the CFHS Online database. Thank you, Calderdale FHS for publishing this really useful resource.

Editor's Note: Thanks to the Volunteers from the Local History Section of Halifax Central Library who transcribed the Newspaper BMDs Index. Both Guardian & Courier newspapers are available from the Halifax Central Library and any entry can be obtained from them by quoting the newspaper name, date, page no. & name.

Thanks to Peter Lord and his Transcribers Team for the CFHS Databases. It's well known that Family History Societies do a better job of transcriptions than many others who have no personal interest, or local knowledge. My husband found one of his ancestors' location in Horwich (Lancashire) transcribed as "Norwich"!

There will be very few readers who are not familiar with the work of the Commonwealth War Graves Commission (CWGC). It is not so well known that working in a similar vein to their 'Remember all in Perpetuity' is The War Graves Photographic Project (TWGPP). This is a voluntary group whose aim is to extend the work of the CWGC by photographing every war grave and memorial worldwide. The 'Project' was informally started in 2005 but went 'live' as a website in 2007.

The ethos of TWGPP is very simple: to enable families and researchers to obtain, via its website, a photograph of a grave or memorial, which many cannot personally visit.

Initially the project's brief was confined to Commonwealth war graves or memorials for WWI and WWII but the scope has now widened to include all nationalities and all conflicts providing the casualty died in service or as a result of conflict.

Currently the website contains well over a 1.9 million images from 23,000 cemeteries or memorials in over 150 countries. Photographing the beautifully maintained CWGC cemeteries is one thing. Tramping through the undergrowth of often neglected churchyards or vast corporation cemeteries looking for a single - or scattered headstones - is another story altogether as volunteers can testify with many a frustrating or amusing story.

The project has over 1000 volunteers worldwide from all walks of life. All that was required was motivation, a digital camera and, often, the location data supplied by the project's coordinator. It is probably a fair assessment to say that this is a project which owes its ultimate true worth to modern technology: the facility to download from camera to computer to website with comparative ease and speed.

I became involved in this project in 2008 when working in Khartoum, Sudan, and photographed the Commonwealth war graves cemetery there. One piece of well-maintained green space in a dusty and chaotic city.

Khartoum Commonwealth War Graves Cemetery and TWGPP records for J Anderson who died 27 August 1888 and served with the Camel Transport Corps

Since then I have photographed war graves wherever I have been fortunate to work or to travel: from Maiduguri in North East Nigeria (the area currently suffering from the terrors of Boko Haram) to Djibouti and from Pune in India to Prague.... and many, many, places in between.

Whilst we are all used to seeing the well-maintained cemeteries of France and Belgium we do need to remember the very many casualties of war who died across the globe. Many of the cemeteries I have visited have been amazingly well maintained, but many have not.

What is also interesting are the number of graves that can be found which predate the founding of the CWGC and can be photographed and put on the database. A number of additional burials are also found along with a number of inconsistencies and errors in spelling of names, and dates of death etc.

When I am back in the UK, and have access to a vehicle, I have been trying to photograph family memorials in cemeteries and graveyards in Calderdale and further afield. The best time to do this is a bright day in the winter or spring when one can access the cemeteries and one does not have to compete with the brambles, Rosebay Willow Herb or waist-high vegetation.

Cross Stone graveyard, Todmorden (looking towards Stoodley Pike) and Undercliffe Cemetery, Bradford

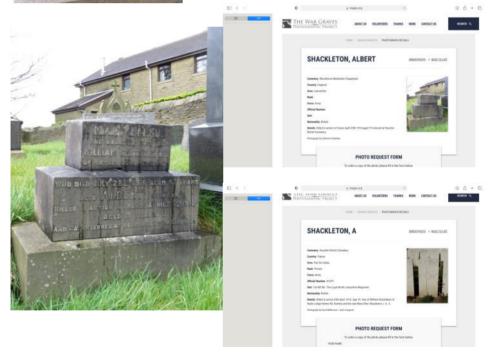

In many cemeteries the only way to search for family memorials is to walk along all of the rows of the cemetery and read all of the inscriptions, a task easier said than done. Once identified as a possible casualty of conflict photographs are taken so that these can be checked against Commonwealth war graves records and photographs put on the TWGPP database.

Thus on the TWGPP website there may be two images for some casualties of conflict: the "official" Commonwealth War Grave Commission headstone and then the family grave headstone with the death of their relative commemorated upon it.

Family grave noting the death of Charles William Thomas, Todmorden (Christ Church) cemetery and details in TWGPP database showing the grave in Twelve Tree Copse Cemetery.

Family memorial in Worsthorne Methodist Chapleyard, the TWGPP entry and the entry for the same casualty at Houchin British Cemetery. NB: issues exist round the consistency of names (initials vs given name)

The project is always looking for new volunteers to help photograph cemeteries and graveyards in the UK and overseas. Please contact the project if you are interesting in assisting. Please note its not always possible to say which churchyards and cemeteries have not been done. For example, I recently returned to Walsden, St Peters, to try to ensure that all Commonwealth War Grave commission graves and family headstones were photographed/rephotographed. With a return visit to the graveyard I picked up a number of previously not photographed headstones and these are now on site. Thus for this particular churchyard there are 32 records on the TWGPP database but on the CWGC site it notes 12 commonwealth war graves in the churchyard. I have not yet cross referenced the number of headstones with casualties of conflict with any database of monumental inscriptions. That may show I have still more to find!

As well as recording graves the project will also add into the database memorials to individuals which are found. The database does not contain memorials to groups of casualties or village/town war memorials.

Individual memorials in Khartoum (now in the Republican Palace Museum (previously the Cathedral) and in Ripon Cathedral

I have felt that as I have been lucky to travel to some amazing countries round the globe I should try to take photographs of the war graves that are there and pay my respects to those that have died. This has been done with mixed emotions: sadness that many family members have never been able to travel to the places of their loved one's graves, sometimes sadness at the state of the places in which graves have been found, at other times wonder at the amazing work done to maintain the cemeteries especially in areas of the world where there has been later conflicts or changes in the status of countries, sadness (in some countries) that those who fought together and died together are not always recognized by their full names nor buried together, a recognition of our history, a wonder at how fast time moves on, the bravery and the resilience of people, and awe at an institution whose aim it is to remember in perpetuity.

Requests for photographs are dealt with on a daily basis by the Project Request Co-ordinator; the success rate is high given the numbers in the archive and the numerous letters of thanks received are both poignant, heartwarming and in many instances heartbreaking.

During the 100th Anniversary of WWI which formally ended in 2019 many local societies and schools utilised the facility to prepare exhibitions and local publications to remember the men and women that were commemorated on local memorials. It is hoped that many families will discover this vast archive and find relatives who may have faded into obscurity.

Adding images to the website is an ongoing task and revisits to many cemeteries are being conducted by volunteers to update the archive. Ultimately the archive will form a lasting record of all those who paid the ultimate sacrifice. Although records from many countries are complete there are some countries where it has proved difficult to get volunteers to assist. We still need to complete the records for eg Iraq, Nigeria, Tanzania, Uganda, Pakistan, etc

Hi Frances

I've got a new genetic genealogy book out (the start of what I hope will become a new series!), The Chester Creek Murders

getbook.at/ChesterCreek-ebook

The Chester Creek Murders

When Detective Clayton Tyler is tasked with reviewing the formidable archives of unsolved homicides in his police department's vaults, he settles on one particular cold case from the 1980s: The Chester Creek Murders. Three young women were brutally murdered—their bodies dumped in Chester Creek, Delaware County—by a serial killer who has confounded a slew of detectives and evaded capture for over thirty-eight years. With no new leads or information at his disposal, the detective contacts Venator for help, a company that uses cutting-edge investigative genetic genealogy to profile perpetrators solely from DNA evidence. Taking on the case, Madison Scott-Barnhart and her small team at Venator must use their forensic genealogical expertise to attempt finally to bring the serial killer to justice. Madison, meanwhile, has to weigh professional and personal issues carefully, including the looming five-year anniversary of her husband's disappearance.

DNA

The following is part of a much longer email, which I have not room for in this issue. If anyone is interested in DNA in family research, I can forward a copy. (editor)

I use DNA extensively in my family research.

I belong to a local DNA Working Group, https://www.obcgs.com/ which meets by Zoom usually on the 1st Saturday of each month, at 1:00PM US Eastern Time. I have given some talks jointly with my daughter Lara (she lives in Seattle). She is a biological scientist & research coordinator. Her Zoom talk in March on autosomal DNA implications for health & traits might include some research findings on genes (e.g. genes on Chromosome 3 affecting the ACE2 receptor; & blood group, Chromosome 9) bearing upon one's probable reaction to exposure to the Covid19 virus. Lara regularly communicates with cutting-edge labs in the Seattle vicinity.

Anyone interested in attending our DNA Zooms (non-members welcome) can contact me & I will see that one of the group coordinators sends a Zoom link invitation. Or use this link: https://www.obcgs.com/event/dna-group-discussion/

Our DNA Zoom group usually includes a Ph.D. geneticist,

Monthly Meetings - Second Quarter 2021

Whilst it is still the Society's policy to return to the traditional meeting format at the earliest opportunity, the Committee has taken the decision, irrespective of any ongoing changes in government restrictions, to continue streaming meetings over Zoom. This will ultimately lead to the introduction of "hybrid" meetings where the event is essentially "filmed" and live streamed to all interested members around the UK and overseas.

It had been hoped that normal service would resume in May but this is now looking increasingly unlikely in the present circumstances. The likelihood is that the meetings scheduled during the second quarter, including the AGM in April, will continue to be held virtually over Zoom – any changes will of course be notified in the monthly Newsletter.

[If you are not already registered for virtual meetings , you need to install Zoom on to your computer, I-Pad or other device. This can easily be downloaded from https://zoom.us/download — hopefully anyone who needs help with this has a relative (usually a grandchild !!) who can do the business. If all else fails, get in touch with us at systems@cfhsweb.com

Once installed, just E-Mail our Membership Secretary at membsec@cfhsweb.com & ask to be registered for the on-line meeting. Once this has been done, she will send you details (known as "Participants' Protocol") to help you get the best from every meeting.]

Annual General Meeting

The AGM will be followed by a demonstration of the new CFHS Database. This excellent research facility is now available to all members on the Society's website and comprises in excess of 2 million fully searchable local records. These include BMDs, Burials, Monumental Inscriptions, Newspapers, School Logs & Admissions.

David Cawthra, a native of Halifax and away-member of Calderdale FHS, has been researching the Cawthra families of Yorkshire for the past 15 years. He is a member of the Guild of One Name Studies and will initially explain its benefits for non-members.

David will go on to set out how he approached the study, which has engaged the interest of Cawthra's throughout the world and also outline the vital role DNA played in the investigation.

He will conclude by recounting some of the interesting and often fascinating stories he unearthed along the journey.

Appeal for Committee Members

This is the time of year, as the AGM in April approaches, that we consider the make-up of the Committee for the next 12 months. The Committee carries out all the basic business for the Society, so it is important that we have as wide a range of views & experiences as possible.

Since the outbreak of Covid-19, all activities have been carried out remotely & these have been successful. Consequently, the Committee has decided that there will now be a Zoom presence at all future Committee meetings, even after the Covid-19 crisis is over. As a result, we will now be able to open up Committee membership to Away Members rather than just those in the Halifax area.

Your Committee see this as a step forward to being able to widen the representation of members in the decision-making process for the Society, and will welcome members from anywhere in the world who would like to put themselves forward for Committee membership.

We meet 6 times per year, on the 2nd Tuesday of the month, on even numbered months at 7:30pm UK time, and the meetings generally last for no more than 2 hours, – quite often considerably less. The Committee is elected at the AGM every year, with the 2021 AGM taking place on Thursday 22nd April at 7:30pm UK time.

If you would like to put yourself forward for election, please complete the nomination form opposite (Page AGM 4) & return it to the Secretary. Alternatively, E-Mail your offer direct to the secretary at secretary@cfhsweb.com.

All applications will be considered at the AGM.

We hope that this change will encourage those members not local to Halifax to take the opportunity to help in the Society's management.

The official meeting will be followed by a training video on the use of the on-line database now available on our web-site

New Online Database

By now, most of you will be familiar with the fact that we have launched our latest initiative to help our members – the online database to allow you to get the full detail for all the 2 ¼ million transcribed items of data that we hold.

We promised that we would give you as much detail as possible by doing short items on the monthly Newsletter, plus more extensive information in the quarterly Scrivener.

So this article is to consolidate what has already been said in the Newsletters & to give you an update on how we are making sure as many people as possible know about it.

Firstly, by the time you read this, we hope to have made a video which goes through the detail of all the tables in the database & how best to use it. This will be posted on YouTube, so that it is available to both members & non-members alike. The reason that we want non-members to be able to view it is because we feel that it might be a useful "recruitment" tool for new members. There will, inevitably, be crucial omissions on this concerning exactly how you get on to the database, so that we reduce the possibility of non-members gaining access. That detail will only be given in our articles that you can read in the member-limited publications.

General Approach.

When designing this, we wanted to make sure that it worked as closely as possible with the existing Transcription Index. The beauty of that Index is that you can key in a name & it will show you all the entries available across all types of databases for that name. On the Online database (OLDB), the data is structured by record type (eg one set of data for Baptisms, another for Marriages etc.) which means that just to go directly into the OLDB to find a particular person would mean you searching in each of the 11 databases.

How to get started.

A late development which should have been implemented by the time you read this, is to have an extra "button" available for you to use once you have found a person on the Transcription Index. You will be familiar with the "Send Mail" button to send an E-mail request to our Search Coordinator, so that she can send you full details of the entry concerned. Of course, you can still use that facility if you wish. However, we now have an extra button in that window "Find Data in Database" which, when selected, will automatically open the OLDB & present the data for that entry for you. Once in the system, you can explore all the other elements at your leisure, or, alternatively, go back to the Transcription Index to select another person.

However, if you just want to browse around the OLDB, you can do so by entering it via the link "Members Area/CFHS Online Records" from the main menu. This allows you to see detail about what the OLDB offers before going in, on an "explanation page". You can then access the OLDB by following the links & signing in.

One of the things that you need to do, initially, is to remember the username & password for the OLDB which is shown on the "explanation page". Once you have clicked on the link to enter the system, you will see this screen :-

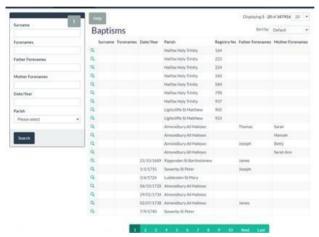

All you need to do is to enter the username & password that you have just noted & this will take you into the OLDB.

The first thing you will see is the whole set of databases available on this screen :-

You can then decide which database vou want to look at & "click" οn the coloured bar for the one vou This will want. take you directly into that database. all of which have а similar look. The one illustrated is for Baptisms:-

You can then start to explore for the people that you think might be there, by entering information into the "select" section, on the LH side of the screen. You can enter some or all of the fields, depending on how much you already know. The more you enter, precise the more search will be, so it's generally a good idea to start with a fairly wide search, such as just Surname & Forename.

One of the particularly useful aspects is to be found at the bottom of the "selection" section (in the baptism screen above, this is for "Parish") where you can get a drop-down list of every parish on the database, thereby limiting yourself to selections from that Parish.

All the databases have a set of common tools. These have been explained in the January & February 2021 Newsletters, so we will not repeat these here. You will see that March's Newsletter began to give detail for each database, one by one. This theme will continue over the next few Newsletters from April onwards.

Please take time to look at the YouTube video, precise details of which will be in the April Newsletter, as we don't have those at this time of writing.

We are happy to help any member who is unsure of how to proceed & have already managed to get some of you started. To do this, just E-mail systems@cfhsweb.com with a request & your telephone no. & we will set up a session to help you through the basics.

We hope that this introduction has been useful to you & has given you an appetite to find out more information on your ancestors.

Happy Hunting !!

Peter Lord – Systems Coordinator.
